

Media, Disasters and the Public

A communications workshop for natural hazards researchers,
scientists and engineers

Communicating vital information to the public during disasters is an essential, but sometimes daunting, responsibility for scientists and engineers.

This workshop will cover a range of practical and research-based insights into the effective science communication for different audiences, including media and members of the public.

Date: Friday, 10 October 2014

Time: 9:00 – 5:00 p.m.

Location: Royal Society Lecture Theatre,
11 Turnbull Street, Wellington

More info & registration: sciencemediacentre.co.nz/disasters

NHRP

Natural Hazards Research Platform

MASSEY UNIVERSITY
TE KUNENGA KI PŪREHUROA
UNIVERSITY OF NEW ZEALAND

